

MUGGLES MAKE MAGIC AT URBAN PREP'S HARRY POTTER FILM SCREENING AND RECEPTION

On July 14th, 2011 at Navy Pier's IMAX Theater over 450 wizards, witches and Muggles gathered for an advance private screening of Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows, Part 2, the last installment in the Harry Potter epic, to benefit Urban Prep Academies. The highlight of the evening came when Matthew Lewis, who played Neville Longbottom in all eight of the Harry Potter films, surprised the audience with an impromptu appearance and Q & A session led by media personality Richard Roper. After the Q & A session, guests enjoyed chocolate frogs straight from Honeydukes Sweets Shop at the reception in Stefani's Crystal Garden.

Guests posed on the red carpet in their best magical attire including Hogwarts robes, Gryffindor ties and scarves, Harry Potter spectacles and of course, wands (the wand of choice being holly with phoenix feather).

The event supported Urban Prep's Study UP! and alumni programs. The evening received coverage on NBC-5 Chicago, Chicago Now - Candace Jordan, and RichardRoper.com.

Urban Prep Academies appreciates all of the people who supported the event. Pictures from the screening and reception can be viewed at www.urbanprep.org.
